Writing Rules 1-5

The image contains five vertical writing lines, each with a dashed midline. The first line shows a horizontal dashed line starting from a solid dot on the left line and extending to the right line, with an arrow pointing right below it. The second line shows a dashed number '2' starting from a solid dot on the left line, curving up and over the dashed midline, then curving down and crossing the dashed midline, with arrows indicating the stroke direction. The third line shows a dashed number '3' starting from a solid dot on the left line, curving up and over the dashed midline, then curving down and over the dashed midline again, with arrows indicating the stroke direction. The fourth line shows a dashed number '4' starting from a solid dot on the left line, moving horizontally to the right line, then vertically up to the top line, then horizontally back to the left line, and finally vertically down to the bottom line, with arrows indicating the stroke direction. The fifth line shows a dashed number '5' starting from a solid dot on the left line, moving vertically up to the top line, then horizontally to the right line, then curving up and over the dashed midline, with arrows indicating the stroke direction.
