

circle

A plane figure that forms a closed path so that all points on the path are the same distance from a point called the center.