

cluster

In a data display, a group of data points that are close to each other.