

gap

In a data display, a region where there are no data points.