

measures of central tendency

Single numbers that represent the center of a set of numerical data. These include the mean, median, and mode.