

population

In statistics, all the individuals that fit a given description.