

statistics

---

A numerical value that characterizes the sample or population from which it was derived.