

bias

The difference between what the responses of a sample are and what the actual responses from the entire population would be.