

outlier

A number or numbers whose values are much less or much greater than the other numbers in the data set.