

Folding

Folding often occurs at the edge of a continent and results in long, narrow mountain ranges, such as the Andes along South America's west coast.

Faulting

Faulting can produce dramatic cliffs when a large section of rock is forced upward or downward, as in this formation in the Rocky Mountains.

