Writing Rules 26-30

The image contains five vertical columns, each representing a set of handwriting practice lines. Each column has three horizontal lines: a solid top line, a dashed middle line, and a solid bottom line. The first column shows a dashed number '2' with arrows indicating the stroke order: a counter-clockwise curve from the bottom line to the middle line, followed by a vertical line up to the top line, and a diagonal line down to the bottom line. The second column shows a solid number '2' with a black dot at the start of the first stroke and arrows indicating the direction. The third, fourth, and fifth columns are blank, providing space for independent practice.
