PROJECT CARD 6
Guide for Readers

Think about the book you read. Imagine that you are a teacher, showing a reader how to get the most out of the book. What information do you think is especially important to understand? What are some good questions to stimulate thoughtful reading?

Reread the book to find headings, sentences, and passages to point out. Write an observation or a question on a sticky note, and place the note beside the text. Then review your notes to choose the most thoughtful ones. Aim for a total of 5–10 sticky notes.

On a sheet of paper, write the title Guide for Readers of (title of book). Then copy the questions and comments from the sticky notes to the sheet. List the page numbers next to these entries for readers’ reference.

You and other Guide writers can place your sheets with the book for other readers to consult.
