Instructions

Think of one activity you know how to do, such as figure skating, cooking, or shooting a basketball. Write an essay for your teacher that explains all about how to do this activity. Be sure to include step-by-step instructions so that someone else could do this activity.

This is how to decide what to do with a garden. You must figure out the plants. There could be flowers or vegetables.

These are some of the flowers. They could be petunias, daisies, lilies, or phlox. These are some of the vegetables. They could be green beans, peas, carrots, or potatoes. What you have is up to you.

You can buy seed. Some people buy plants.

You have to have the dirt dug up. There are special ways to do it.

I like fresh vegetables. You can use many different recipes to cook them. Vegetables are not boring. Sometimes people cook them to death. This makes the vegetables boring. I like potatoes. They can be cooked in many ways. Also there are many kinds of beans. Every vegetable comes from a garden. There are tons of vegetables at the grocery store.

You could draw a picture. That will help you decide on the plants.

You have planned your garden. There is still a lot to do. You have to have tools. Garden tools cost money. Then you have to take care of everything.

If you have done all of this, you now have a garden. Before you begin, you need to think about the climate. Everything might not grow there.
